Qualitative

Is there any additional feedback you would like to provide about the instructor (e.g., teaching style, time management, accessibility)? -

- I went into this class not knowing much about politics. After taking this course, not only has my political knowledge expanded, but also my analytical and interpretive skills have truly broadened from taking this class. Giovanni is really great teacher and I am taking away so much more from this class than I ever imagined.
- I like how the class is super interactive and not just boring notes.
- Good teacher

Is there any additional feedback you would like to provide about the course (e.g., workload, content, technology)? -

- The course felt like a re-cap of things that I've learned throughout my previous years of studying political science. I felt like I didn't learn anything new and I only showed up every week for a "book club" on the readings. If there was no attendance policy I likely would not have attended classes since everything to "learn" was in the readings and nothing new was really presented in class. It felt like a class that focuses on writing a research paper without learning how to write one. Overall, my least favorite class I have taken in my major (due to the course, not the instructor. I liked the instructor, but I feel like he was wasted on this course). Overall too slow, boring, and nothing really new presented.
